STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS
The College of Natural Resources Ambassadors raise awareness about the College of Natural Resources on campus and in the public. We help build a better college environment for students and increase relationships between alumni and current students. The Ambassadors aim to personalize each prospective student’s experience when visiting NC State by providing one-on-one campus tours and taking the students to lunch to make them feel welcome. But the welcoming atmosphere does not stop once you get on campus. This year, we assisted with building a shack at Shack-A-Thon, organized our first ever Fall Festival, and designed the Homecoming Float to celebrate NC State’s Homecoming week! These events were a huge success, and we look forward to doing them again next year!

The Engaging Leaders Program is a one-year program for first-year students in the College of Natural Resources. It's designed to equip students for their career by nurturing personal development, providing professional development with real-world applications, and challenging students to be more culturally aware. Engaging Leaders complete the program ready to excel in their college career.

True diversity is allowing yourself to be open to difference, having an intellectual understanding of the importance of diversity and a true feeling of its importance. Only when the head and the heart work together can positive change take place. In the Community for Diversity, we work to ensure that our faculty, staff, students and alumni feel welcome. Through partnerships and collaborations with other colleges, industry, government and non-government agencies, communities, and you, we maximize our gifts to increase diversity through dialogue, work and research.

We strive to recruit, retain and increase a more diverse class of students, while collaborating with faculty on diversity issues and facilitating programs that highlight diversity in natural resources. Programs from this year include a partnership between GTI and SKEMA for a Cultural Exchange program, Neighborhood Ecology Corps., Environ-mentors program for high school students, a Diversity and Environmental Justice course, a session event for faculty and staff about how to address controversial issues in this political climate, Engaging Leaders Diversity Retreat, and many more.

Accolades this year include receiving the Outstanding College Performance Award for the sixth year in a row. The award recognizes first year students of color with a 3.2 GPA or higher at the end of the fall semester. Students were honored at the Multicultural Student Affairs Freshmen Honors Convocation. Our class was the only one with 100 percent recognition, an honor we’ve received for three years in a row, with everyone receiving a 3.5 GPA or higher.

Community for Diversity office staff: Dr. Thomas Easley (Director), Dr. Shaefny Grays (Associate Director), Selina Cortez (office assistant), Gregory Power (TA), Carmen Swinger (TA), Valentina Quintero (TA)
The International Society of Tropical Foresters (ISTF) is a student-run organization dedicated to enhancing the international dimension of forestry and natural resources at NC State, with an emphasis on tropical issues. The club supports not only international programs in the College of Natural Resources, but also the personal and professional development of all ISTF members. Members help raise funds for activities by selling t-shirts, tote bags and coffee in the lobbies of Biltmore and Jordan Hall. Our activities include regular meetings with invited speakers and organizing symposiums or field trips. This year, we organized a trip to the 23rd Annual ISTF Conference at the Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies. The conference focused on “Tropical Forests in a Connected World: Collaborative Solutions for a Sustainable Future” and some of our members presented on topics related to tropical forests for sustainable development.

Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources and Related Sciences (MANRRS) was chartered in 1998 and is jointly sponsored by the College of Natural Resources and the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. We provide students with professional, community and personal development opportunities and strive for the inclusion, achievement and advancement of all people in the agricultural sciences. MANRRS provides a community for minorities in agricultural, natural resources and related sciences to get together, network and learn.

We are the first college chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation (NWTF) and have been a club for 11 years. We raise money for the conservation of wild turkeys and help preserve our hunting heritage by sponsoring events that give youth and non-hunters the opportunity to learn more about hunting. We host a banquet each year where we raise money to donate to the North Carolina State Chapter NWTF. We also hosted a Turkey Hunters Care Event, where we raised money to buy turkeys to donate to the Raleigh Rescue Mission for thanksgiving.

Professional Golf Management (PGM) Club is the club affiliate of the PGA Golf Management program. Through the PGM program, we get hands-on experience through 16 months of internships. Our students have completed these internships all across the country and in different countries, like New Zealand. The PGM Club helps bring the program together to create a family atmosphere that enables us to succeed.

NC State participated in the 2016 PGA Jones Cup in Port St. Lucie, Fla., with the other 18 PGA accredited PGM programs. NC State finished third with a strong second round.

The Society of American Foresters is a professional organization that brings students and professionals of Forest Management together to share new research and insights, as well as brainstorm and improve the nation's forests through management. As the future foresters of the country, our student chapter seeks to improve our understanding of the profession while having fun and building connections. Our annual events include our Wilderness Expedition and trip to the SAF National Convention, APSAF Meeting, Arbor Day, and Stream Clean-Up.

"Like winds and sunsets, wild things were taken for granted until progress began to do away with them. Now we face the question whether a still higher ‘standard of living’ is worth its cost in things natural, wild and free. For us, the foresters, the opportunity to see geese is more important than twitter." – Aldo Leopold
The Student Association for Fire Ecology (SAFE) is an organization which promotes fire ecology through prescribed fire implementation, public outreach, education and professional development. This year, we assisted in organizing a prescribed fire on the Schenck Forest during the Spring 2016 semester to promote fire ecology awareness and enhance student training.

The Sport Management Club is for Sport Management majors within the College of Natural Resources. We offer networking, host various speakers from the sport industry, and discuss current events in the sport world. We also host Pack Play 180, an after-school event at Bugg Elementary, that promotes good sportsmanship and healthy lifestyles for kids ages 6-12. Each year the Sport Management Club travels to the SPEIA Basketball Analytics Summit, hosted by UNC-Chapel Hill. The event shares the latest research in basketball analytics from leading experts, including Ken Pomeroy, professionals from the NBA, and more!

TAPPI is an organization that helps Paper Science and Engineering students improve their knowledge and professional development skills by connecting education to the paper industry. TAPPI helps sponsor events and trips for students to network with industry professionals and other students, as well as give back to the community and profession through volunteering. Members (32) attended the TAPPI Student Summit in Cincinnati, Ohio. Students were given the opportunity to collaborate with students from other universities. They also gained valuable insight to help facilitate professional advancement and were able to interview with industry professionals for internships and full-time employment.

The NC State Work Crew is comprised of students who receive scholarships, funded through the College of Natural Resources, to enhance the college’s forests throughout the state. The forests that receive the most work are the Carl Alwin Schenck Forest in Raleigh and the G.W. Hill Demonstration Forest in Bahama. We conduct many different forest management techniques, such as: prescribed fire, herbicide treatment, bull dozing, trail clearing, wildlife management, timber marking, timber sale, and much more.
Xi Sigma Pi is the only national scholastic honor society that recognizes achievement in forestry and environmental resources education. The society was founded at the University of Washington in 1908. The Mu Chapter at NC State was added in 1940 as the first chapter in the Southern Region of the United States. There are only 11 chapters in the United States older than our chapter. Membership is by invitation only.

The objectives of the society are to secure and maintain a high standard of scholarship in natural resources education, to work for the improvement of natural resources professions, and to promote a fraternal spirit among those engaged in activities related to natural resources.

Each year the society holds an annual banquet for the induction of new members into Xi Sigma Pi. Inductees and current members enjoy a social gathering, dinner, and an induction ceremony. In April 2017 the society inducted about 40 new members at the annual banquet.

CNR Council
The CNR Council serves as the unified voice of all students in the College of Natural Resources. The group is composed of representatives from all recognized student organizations in the college. We meet monthly to discuss current issues, problems, achievements and concerns, as well as develop ideas for better serving students. We are responsible for allocating funds each year to student organizations to provide support for various activities, as well as helping publish the Pinetum.

CNR Senators
The NC State Student Senate was really busy this year and passed a number of sustainability bills, including a bill encouraging NC State to commit to 100 percent renewable energy. We also worked to make sure our students feel safe and supported on campus.

Senators: Majesty Allah, Chase Connor, Haley Lohr

CNR Women in Science Discussion Group
The goal of the Women in Science Discussion Group is to champion the interests of women through a peer support and mentorship network that addresses the challenges faced by women in science and focuses on tangible ways for us to achieve our goals.

Every weekly meeting starts with a 10-15 minute video, followed by a discussion. There is no preparation required and everyone starts from the same place with the same information. We’ve talked about different types of bias – how they emerge, how they affect women, and some strategies for pointing out and addressing these biases. We’ve discussed leadership and team-building, communication, and work-life balance. We invite women from across the University to share their experiences and the tools and strategies they’ve found most useful in their careers. We have a great “inter-generational” mix of participants - from graduate students, to newly appointed assistant professors, to full professors and even our College Dean - which provides a broad spectrum of experiences that ensures depth in the mentoring and peer support networks. It’s very empowering to have a network of mentors, sponsors and friends!

Environmental Sciences Ambassadors
The Environmental Sciences (ES) program selects students from the program to serve as ambassadors each year. Our enthusiastic and knowledgeable students host and participate in university events, recruit new students, provide support, and promote the program. All ambassadors demonstrate great leadership and communications skills, NC State pride and academic achievement across a diversity of focal areas with the ES program. We participate in University Open House, Service Raleigh Adopt a Stream Project, ES Focal Area Exploration Event, ES Transfer Information Sessions and more events throughout the year.

Active Members: Aaron Springer, Abby Frankenfield, Austin Bowman, Claire Walczyk, Deirdre An, Jessica Citrola, Jessica Westervelt, Mary Summers Rogers, Pierce Lawrence, Zoe Eischen
Advisor: Erin Champion

Forestry Club
The Forestry Club competes in technical and manual events using tools of the trade. Each year, we host Rolleo at Schenck Forest, bringing southeastern forestry schools together for friendly competition.

President: Hunter Thompson
Treasurer: Trevor Setzer

Environmental Education Club
Our club exposes K-8 students to environmental science in interactive and accessible ways to foster interest and inspire environmental protection. Members create lesson plans, teach students and participate in outreach events. We are both a service and professional organization that helps students earn their Environmental Educator’s Certification.
Forest Management students spend nine weeks at summer camp completing courses in forest measurements, plant community ecology, silviculture, fire and wildlife management. Students spend time at Hill Demonstration Forest, Croatan National Forest on the coast and Pisgah National Forest in the mountains. Fisheries, Wildlife and Conservation Biology students complete a 6-week summer camp at Hill Forest, the coast of Morehead City and Great Smoky Mountains National Park.
Welcome to the College of Natural Resources class of 2020! All new students to the college were invited to visit our outdoor learning lab at Schenck Forest this fall. From the NC State Ropes Course to hands-on demonstrations, games, food and more, we hope you felt right at home.
Our North Carolina State and National Parks turned 100 this year! To celebrate a century of parks, we hosted 10 events and activities throughout the fall semester. From a birthday party on the brickyard to a trail maintenance day to an Instagram photo contest (#CenturyofParksNCState) to a screening of The Plow that Broke the Plains to an Evening with John Muir with actor Lee Stetson and many more events, we sparked conversation and excitement about spending time in nature and the importance of our park system.
As the reigning champion of Shack-A-Thon for the past two years with a log cabin shack and a bamboo shack, the College of Natural Resources continued their winning streak by thinking outside the box with a cardboard windmill-shaped shack provided by the Packaging Corporation of America. Our team raised $4,486, putting the college 4th place overall, and received the ‘Most Sustainable Shack’ Award. The friendly campus-wide competition helped raise $65,000 for the Wake County Habitat for Humanity Build-A-Block campaign, which built 11 townhomes on Lake Wheeler Rd.
Sport Management major Lucas Kozeniesky competed in the men's 10-meter air rifle competition and Fisheries, Wildlife and Conservation Biology major Ryan Held took home the gold as the third leg of the men's 4x100 freestyle relay at the 2016 Olympics in Rio de Janeiro. Both were excited to represent the USA at their Olympic debut.
HOMECOMING
Each year, the Forestry Club hosts Rolleo at Schenck Forest, bringing together all the southeastern forestry schools for friendly competition in technical and manual events.
The Wildlife Society (TWS) student chapters host regional conclaves each year to provide college students with valuable hands-on training in wildlife management and conservation. Activities include field trips, field competitions, game-calling competitions, quiz bowl, art and photography contests, and many opportunities for professional development.

The Southeastern Wildlife Conclave promotes networking and cooperation among students, faculty and professionals, while developing new knowledge and skills. NC State’s student chapter finished second overall at the 2017 Conclave held at Mississippi State University. Other award winners included first place in Unmanipulated Photography and first place in Landscape Photography (Lucas Bobay), First place in drawing (Elisabeth Frasch), first place in Rifle (April Boggs), first place in Turkey Calling (Mark Turner), second place in Painting (Madi McDiarmid), third place in Field Photography and third place in Trail Camera Photography (Moriah Boggess), and third place in Waterfowl Calling (Ryan Beeson).
